c. Six so-called "100-man units" of the Thuringian border and kaserne police were quartered in a secluded section of the kaserne.

2. Flak Kaserne on Eitersburgerstrasse and on Zum Waldgelaende (formerly occupied by one battalion of the German 83rd AAA Regt):

a. Heavily occupied by AAA units totaling about a thousand troops.

b. Ten 76.2-mm AA guns and several guns of a somewhat larger caliber were seen in the kaserne area. Troops were trained in the kaserne yard with a large range finder and an AA machine gun.

c. Six 76.2-mm AA guns were emplaced on the large drill ground, northwest of the kaserne. The command bunker at the emplacement was connected with the kaserne by a telephone line.

Comment:

the ~~WIKM~~ headquarters units of the Eight Gas Army were back in their previous quarters in November 1949. The observation in ~~WIKM~~ of two signal units corroborates previous assumptions that, besides the 446th Sig Bn (in the Luetzendorf Kaserne?), another signal unit (91st Sig Regt in the Nachrichten Kaserne on Leibnitzallee?) is stationed in ~~WIKM~~.
